

"In 2007, approximately 27,000 unintentional drug overdose deaths occurred in the United States, one death every 19 minutes. Prescription drug abuse is the fastest growing drug problem in the United States. The increase in unintentional drug overdose death rates in recent years has been driven by increased use of a class of prescription drugs called opioid analgesics. Since 2003, more overdose deaths have involved opioid analgesics than heroin and cocaine combined. In addition, for every unintentional overdose death related to an opioid analgesic, nine persons are admitted for substance abuse treatment, 35 visit emergency departments, 161 report drug abuse or dependence, and 461 report nonmedical uses of opioid analgesics. Implementing strategies that target those persons at greatest risk will require strong coordination and collaboration at the federal, state, local, and tribal levels, as well as engagement of parents, youth influencers, health-care professionals, and policy-makers."

Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Mortality and Morbidity Weekly Report, January 13, 2012.

"Today, prescription drug abuse is the fastest-growing drug problem in the country – and contributes to nearly 40,000 deaths and almost $200 billion in health-care costs annually. It's estimated that, nationwide, approximately 7 million people regularly use prescription drugs for non-medical purposes; and that, in the past year alone, one in seven teens abused prescription drugs to get high.

Over the last decade, fatal poisonings involving drugs like oxycodone and methadone have more than tripled. And prescription drugs now cause more overdose deaths than "street drugs" such as cocaine, heroin and methamphetamine."

Kerry B. Harvey
U.S. Attorney Eastern District of Kentucky

In January of 2010, Kerry B. Harvey was nominated by President Barack Obama to serve as U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky. Mr. Harvey is a native of Kentucky and brings more than 25 years of legal experience to the position.

Prior to his arrival at the U.S. Attorney's Office, Mr. Harvey served two and a half years as the General Counsel for the Kentucky Cabinet of Health and Family Services in Frankfort, Ky. He directed a team of 35 lawyers that litigated cases such as health care fraud. In that role, Mr. Harvey also served as the Acting Inspector General for the Cabinet for a six month period where he led efforts to prevent and detect fraud in various programs administered by the Cabinet (i.e. health care).

Mr. Harvey worked as a partner in a private law firm in Benton Ky. from 1991 until 2008. He spent much of his time litigating civil cases in which he defended banks, hospitals, local governments and local officials in federal court on alleged civil rights violations. He also served eight years as the Marshall County Attorney (1986 – 1994) while maintaining his private practice and prosecuted more than 50 jury trial cases during his tenure.

Harvey earned his undergraduate degree from Murray State University in 1978 and graduated from the University of Kentucky's College of Law in 1982.

David J. Hale
U.S. Attorney Western District of Kentucky

David J. Hale was sworn in as United States Attorney for the Western District of Kentucky on May 7, 2010, following nomination by President Obama and confirmation by the United States Senate. As the District's chief federal law enforcement officer, Mr. Hale supervises the prosecution of all federal crimes and the litigation of civil matters in which the federal government is a party, in a District encompassing 53 counties and over two million residents. He oversees the work of over 80 attorneys and support staff in Kentucky's largest city, Louisville, as well as office locations in Bowling Green, Owensboro and Paducah.

Before beginning his service as U.S. Attorney, Mr. Hale was a member of the Louisville law firm Reed Weitkamp Schell & Vice PLLC, where he concentrated his practice in commercial litigation, representing businesses and individuals from disparate industries in federal and state courts across Kentucky. While in private practice, Mr. Hale served on the governing boards of the Louisville Urban League and Kentucky Educational Television (KET).

From 1995-99, Mr. Hale served as an Assistant U.S. Attorney in the Western District of Kentucky. During his tenure as an AUSA, he prosecuted a broad array of criminal cases, including violent crime, narcotics, illegal guns, homicide, child exploitation, white collar crime. Mr. Hale also represented the government in civil matters, including affirmative civil enforcement cases, health care fraud and financial litigation.

Mr. Hale is a graduate of Vanderbilt University (B.A., 1989) and the University of Kentucky College of Law (J.D., 1992). Prior to his appointment as U.S. Attorney, he also served on the University of Kentucky College of Law Visiting Committee. Mr. Hale is married and has two teenage children. He was born in the Army hospital at Ft. Campbell, Kentucky.

President - University of Kentucky

Since beginning his term as the 12th President of the University of Kentucky, Dr. Capilouto has intently engaged in a series of conversations with stakeholders across campus and the state – conversations which have led to a collective vision for the University of Kentucky.

The vision – what he refers to as the Kentucky Promise – entails a comprehensive and innovative undergraduate program to prepare our graduates to compete and lead in a global society. These efforts are complemented by the revitalization of our campus facilities, and the creation of spaces where students learn alongside our world-class faculty and researchers.

Dr. Capilouto previously served as Provost of the University of Alabama at Birmingham (UAB) and Dean of the UAB School of Public Health. He holds several undergraduate and graduate degrees from schools within the University of Alabama system, and a Doctorate in Health Policy and Management from Harvard University. He and his wife, Dr. Mary Lynne Capilouto, have one daughter in graduate school.

Michael Karpf, M.D.

Michael Karpf received both his undergraduate and medical degrees from the University of Pennsylvania. After an internship in Medicine at Johns Hopkins Hospital, he served as a Research Associate in the Laboratory of Immunology at the National Institutes of Health. He returned to the University of Pennsylvania to complete his medical residency, fellowship in Hematology and Oncology and a Chief Residency in Internal Medicine. In 1978, he went to the Miami Veteran Administration Hospital to start a Division of General Internal Medicine.

In 1979, he was recruited to the University of Pittsburgh to develop a Division of General Medicine. In 1985, he assumed the Falk Chair in General Medicine and became Vice Chair of the Department of Medicine. In 1994, Dr. Karpf went to the Allegheny Health Systems as Senior Vice President for Clinical Affairs at Allegheny General Hospital and Senior Vice President for Clinical Affairs at the Allegheny Integrated Health Group. In 1995, Dr. Karpf was recruited to UCLA as Vice Provost for Hospital Systems. There he integrated the UCLA Medical Center, the Santa Monica /UCLA Medical Center and the Neuropsychiatric Hospital into one corporate entity.

In October 2003, he was recruited to the University of Kentucky as the Executive Vice President for Health Affairs to integrate the clinical services. He is responsible for all clinical operations across the university hospital, medical center (including all schools and colleges), and practice organizations (Kentucky Medical Services Foundation and University Physicians Group Council).

Sharon Turner, DDS, JD

Dean & Professor of Oral Health Practice
College of Dentistry
University of Kentucky

Dr. Sharon Turner has served as Dean at the College of Dentistry at the University of Kentucky since October of 2003. She previously served as Dean, School of Dentistry at Oregon Health & Science University and held several administrative positions at the School of Dentistry at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She received her DDS degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and completed a two year NIH sponsored postdoctoral training in Diagnosis and Management of Craniofacial Pain at UNC-CH as well. She received her JD degree magna cum laude from North Carolina Central University in 1995 where she was a member of the law review staff. She was admitted to the North Carolina Bar in 1996. She participated in the Executive Leadership in Academic Medicine Fellowship in 2007-2008 as the first dentist to complete this program. She has served as president of SELAM, an organization originally founded by graduates of the ELAM program but opened to all sharing the philosophy that gender equity in medical and dental education is beneficial to all. She has been honored by SELAM for her work in this area via receipt of the "SELAM Award for Excellence." She was an American Council of Education Fellow in 2007-2008 and worked in the Office of the President at Indiana University. Dr. Turner has been active in ADEA serving on the Administrative Board of the Council of Deans and on the Legislative Advocacy Committee. She also served as a member of the Commission on Dental Accreditation having been nominated by ADEA for this role. She is a member of several honorary organizations including Omicron Kappa Upsilon, Pi Kappa Phi, the American College of Dentists, the International College of Dentists, the National Academies of Practice and the American College of Legal Medicine. Dr. Turner has had a strong interest in community issues since her days at a dental student when she was a student leader in the “Student Health Action Clinics” for indigent persons in the Chapel Hill region. Her interest in bilateral engagement was enhanced after members of her college began developing community partnerships to serve the triple roles of sustainable clinical centers to address severe access to dental care problems; clinical research on community identified oral-systemic health links; and development of community based training sites for dental students. Her ACE Fellowship project focused on university engagement. She is also active in organized dentistry and has served as Vice President of both the Kentucky Dental Association and the Blue Grass Dental Society. She continues to participate in patient care in the faculty dental practice. Dr. Turner has published in both dental and legal journals and is a frequent speaker at regional, national and international meetings.

Governor Steve Beshear

Steven L. Beshear was elected governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky in November 2007 and re-elected in November 2011. He is just the third person in Kentucky history to be elected to serve consecutive terms as Governor.

An attorney by profession, Gov. Beshear has a long background in public service, having served as a state representative in the Kentucky General Assembly, attorney general and lieutenant governor prior to being elected governor. To each of these positions he has brought a foundation of integrity and ethics, as well as a deeply felt commitment to improving the lives of fellow Kentuckians.

Despite inheriting an austere budget and a struggling economy, he has focused on initiatives to help Kentucky families. These have included expanding efforts to bring health coverage to almost 60,000 uninsured children, protecting education from the most severe budget cuts, and creating or retaining nearly 30,000 jobs through aggressive economic development efforts.

Gov. Beshear is a native of Dawson Springs in Hopkins County, Ky. He and his wife, Jane, have been married since 1969. They own a small farm in Clark County. They have two sons — Jeff, a veterinarian; and Andy, an attorney — and three grandchildren.

IA Carter worked at FBI Headquarters in Washington DC for the WMD Directorate's Weapons, Tradecraft, and Tactics Unit, concentrating on biological threats. IA Carter also worked at the FBI Academy as an Instructor teaching intelligence analysis and critical thinking skills to analysts and agents. Prior to entering on duty with the FBI, IA Carter worked for the Boeing company as an environmentalist and with the Kentucky Cabinet for Natural Resources as an environmental inspector. IA Carter has a Master of Public Health with a concentration on environmental health and toxicology as well as a bachelor in environmental biology.

Dustin Gross
U.S. Military Veteran

Lance Corporal Dustin Gross is an Iraq War Veteran and recovering addict. He was deployed to Ramadi, in 2006, when a roadside bomb left him severely injured. Pain medications were prescribed during his recovery, but it was his recovery from an addiction to the medication that proved a greater test for this young Marine. Dustin found help and hope from a program at the Robley Rex VA hospital in Louisville and joins us with his story.

Brent Turner
Commonwealth's Attorney
Floyd County, Kentucky

Brent Turner received his law degree from the University of Louisville in 1995. He returned home to Floyd County where he practiced law for 3 years before becoming an Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney in 1998. Brent has served as Floyd Commonwealth's Attorney since 2000. During his two terms, Brent has put an emphasis on prosecuting drug trafficking cases. His office has successfully prosecuted record numbers of drug traffickers. Brent has a 100% trial conviction rate in drug trafficking cases and his office has never had an acquittal at trial in any criminal case. Brent's office works closely with the United States Attorney and several large Federal drug investigations in East Kentucky have originated in his office. Brent also serves as a Special Assistant United States Attorney (SAUSA) for the Eastern District. He is actively involved with the Appalachian HIDTA and served as a member of their Executive Board for two years. Brent has spoken at various law enforcement training events and most recently gave a presentation to President Obama's Drug Czar, Gil Kerlikowske during his tour of East Kentucky.

Greg Smith
Chief of Police
Oldham County Police Department

Chief Smith joined the Oldham County Police Department in January, 2011, replacing Michael Griffin. Smith was Louisville's police chief for 2½ years and retired from the force in 2002 to join U.S. Sen. Jim Bunning's staff.

Smith teaches a criminal justice class at Bellarmine University, and in his spare time he works out, reads history books and National Geographic and watches sports.

Trish Freeman, RPh, PhD.

Associate Professor of Pharmacy Practice and Science
UK College of Pharmacy

Trish Freeman is an associate professor in the College of Pharmacy and a faculty associate in the College's Institute for Pharmaceutical Outcomes and Policy. Dr. Freeman's research interests in pharmaceutical and health policy led to a successful collaboration with the Kentucky Cabinet for Health and Family Services to evaluate the impact of Kentucky's prescription drug monitoring program (KASPER) on reducing prescription drug abuse and diversion. Most recently, her research has focused on the impact of regulations controlling access to pseudoephedrine on indicators of methamphetamine abuse.

Michael Burleson, RPh

On October 1, 2004, Michael A. Burleson assumed the position of Executive Director of the Kentucky Board of Pharmacy. Mr. Burleson is a 1974 graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy. Prior to assuming his position with the Board, Mr. Burleson worked in a number of pharmacies for 30 years including two hospital pharmacies, two chain pharmacies, and co-owning pharmacies. He is currently President-Elect of National Association of Boards of Pharmacy (NABP). He is a past president of the National University of Kentucky Alumni Association and the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy Alumni Association.

Dan Wermeling, PharmD

Dan Wermeling is a professor in the College of Pharmacy. His career has included participating in the pharmaceutical care of patients with acute and chronic pain conditions. He educates College of Pharmacy students about use of analgesics in the PY2 Pain Management module. An element of his scholarship has been to conduct clinical research on new analgesic medications and drug delivery systems of which many are on the market today. He has published extensively on the clinical pharmacology of analgesics and delivery systems. His most recent research interest is to develop an intranasal drug delivery form of the opioid antidote, naloxone, under a grant funded by the National Institute on Drug Abuse. Wider availability of the opioid antidote naloxone, particularly in a needle-less drug delivery system, is a public health policy initiative being considered by the federal FDA and NIDA.

Dr. Wermeling will be speaking at a joint FDA/NIDA conference on April 12th intended to explore greater public access to the antidote with the goal to ultimately reduce the mortality associated with legitimate and illicit opioid use. Lastly, he has sought sponsorship through the state legislature for laws that may facilitate greater use of naloxone in the Commonwealth, consistent with Harm Reduction programs established in other states.

Jeffrey Talbert, MD

Associate Professor and Director of the Institute for Pharmaceutical Outcomes and Policy

Professor Talbert is the Director of the College of Pharmacy's Institute for Pharmaceutical Outcomes and Policy, Associate Chair for the Department of Pharmacy Practice and Science, and Co-Director of Biomedical Informatics for the Center for Clinical and Translational Science. His research area is health services research focused on pharmaceutical policy, health outcome analysis, policy evaluation, and Medicaid policy. Recent research has focused on the evaluation of the impact of prescription drug monitoring programs such as KASPER on prescription drug abuse and diversion.

Kevin Pearce, MD, MPH

Kevin A. Pearce, MD, MPH, Professor and Interim Chair, UK Department of Family and Community Medicine. After graduating from the University of Florida College of Medicine, Dr. Pearce completed his Family Medicine Residency in Fairfax, Virginia and later earned his Master of Public Health degree at the University of Minnesota. He has practiced the full range of family medicine for over 25 years, including the past 13 years as a full-time faculty member at the University of Kentucky. He recently helped lead a collaborative effort involving a dozen small primary care practices in Kentucky aimed at improving the prevention and management of prescription drug abuse in their practices (see the EQUIP-4-CRx program at <http://www.mc.uky.edu/equip-4-pcps/>).

Wifredo A. Ferrer was nominated by President Barack Obama and confirmed by the Senate on April 22, 2010 to serve as United States Attorney for the Southern District of Florida. As United States Attorney, Mr. Ferrer is the chief federal law enforcement officer for the District. Prior to his appointment as United States Attorney, Mr. Ferrer held the position of Chief of the Federal Litigation Section at the Miami-Dade County Attorney's Office.

Mr. Ferrer has a long career in public service. After graduating law school in 1990, Mr. Ferrer clerked for then-District (now 11th Circuit) Judge Stanley Marcus. Upon completing his clerkship, Mr. Ferrer joined the Miami law firm of Steel Hector & Davis in the fall of 1991. After three years in private practice, Mr. Ferrer returned to public service, first as a White House Fellow and Special Assistant to the Secretary of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), and later as Deputy Chief of Staff and Counsel to then Attorney General Janet Reno.

After five years at the Department of Justice, Mr. Ferrer returned to Miami in 2000 to become an Assistant U.S. Attorney. While at the U.S. Attorney's Office, he served in the Public Integrity and National Security Section, the Economic Crimes Section, the Major Crimes Section, and the Appellate Division of the Office. As an Assistant U.S. Attorney, Mr. Ferrer handled and tried numerous high profile matters, including international money laundering, health care fraud, narcotics, international human rights abuses, immigration, and firearms offenses.

During his career, Mr. Ferrer has been recognized as one of the Top Government Attorneys by both South Florida Legal Guide and Florida Legal Elite. In addition, he received the Attorney General's Medal in 2000, and Superior Performance and Special Merit Awards for his work as an Assistant U.S. Attorney.

Mr. Ferrer, a Miami native, received his undergraduate degree in Economics (1987) from the University of Miami, in Coral Gables, graduating first in his class. He then attended the University of Pennsylvania Law School where he was an editor of the Law Review, President of his class, and graduated cum laude in 1990. Mr. Ferrer attended Hialeah-Miami Lakes High School, in Hialeah, where he graduated as Valedictorian of his class.
